Connected Compliance Starts with Better Data

Expense capture is one step in a larger compliance workflow. When data, systems and reporting processes are disconnected, teams can spend more time reviewing records, resolving gaps and preparing information for downstream use. A more connected workflow can help reduce manual effort, improve visibility and support stronger compliance confidence.

The Connected Workflow

Expense Capture & Export

Maximize efficiency and support compliance and commercial needs

Provider Data

HCP and HCO information that supports confident decisions

Reporting Workflow

Transparency processes supported by clearer, more connected data

Support & Service

Guidance when workflows become complex

> MedPro Concur Connect supports expense data capture and automated data exporting for seamless reporting, while MedProID and MedPro Compliance Reporting ID can help strengthen the data and reporting processes around that workflow.

Where Extra Work Often Enters

Gaps can show up after expense capture, when records, systems or reporting steps need extra attention.

Workflow Gap Assessment

Use these questions to identify where disconnected data or manual steps may add workflow friction.

QUESTION	YES	NO
Are teams manually reviewing HCP or HCO records before reporting?	☐	☐
Do duplicate or incomplete records slow down internal processes?	☐	☐
Are expense capture, data validation and reporting handled in separate systems?	☐	☐
Does your team rely on spreadsheets to fill workflow gaps?	☐	☐
Is it difficult to see which data issues create the most downstream work?	☐	☐
Do compliance and commercial teams use the same source of provider information?	☐	☐
Would clearer data connections help your team reduce manual follow-up?	☐	☐

> If you answered 'Yes' to any of these questions, your next opportunity may be strengthening the data, systems or reporting steps around your current process.
